

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. CLASSMATES :

In presenting this report, covering the past five years, my first desire is to acknowledge the prompt, full, and satisfactory replies which came from the large proportion of the class. The task of compiling the report, thus made lighter, became a pleasure as well, and my hope is that the following record will be acceptable to those who thus co-operated with me. Of the one hundred and fifty-two surviving members of the class, it will be noticed that nineteen are marked "no report." No one regrets more than myself that these could not have done their share towards making the record complete. Of the thirty-eight surviving temporary members of the class, all but nine retain their interest in the class.

We have lost by death, during the past five years, W. H. Baker, and Lombard, of the regular members, and Kent, Mackintosh, and Warren, of the temporary members.

The statements in the following pages concerning the Class Fund show the same to be in a highly satisfactory condition.

One hundred and one of the regular members of the class are known to have married. The tables of "Marriages" and "Children" are intended to show the record since graduation.

Accept the usual hearty good wishes for your continued success and happiness.

GEORGE P. SANGER, JR.,
Class Secretary.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

JUNE, 1884 — JUNE, 1889.

JAMES LLOYD ABBOT.

Has continued in partnership with Lyman C. Dorgan, Esq., under the firm name of Dorgan & Abbot, cotton buyers, doing business in Mobile, Ala., where he has also resided. Was married in 1881; his second child, Serena Lyon, was born Nov. 10, 1885, and his third child, James Lloyd, Jr., was born Sept. 15, 1888.

WILLIAM FITZHALE ABBOT.

Writes as follows: "I have continued my connection with the college department of the Worcester High School since the last report was published. Much of my leisure time has been occupied with private tutoring. I have also given some time to antiquarian research, especially in a genealogical way. I am a member of the Massachusetts Reform Club, — which indicates my political preferences, — of the Essex Institute of Salem, Mass., and of the Worcester Society of Antiquity; of the latter society I have been secretary since February, 1885." Was married in 1882; a son, Edmund Quincy, was born July 26, 1884; twin sons, Hale Wellington and Larcom, were born July 30, 1885, but the latter died Aug. 8, 1885. Resides at 26 William Street, Worcester, Mass.

RICHARD MINOT ALLEN.

Writes as follows: "Have continued as assistant manager of the Standard Cattle Company. In 1886, changed my residence from Texas to Ames, Neb., where I now am. At this point we have an establishment for feeding and fattening cattle in connection with ranches in Wyoming. Was married at Colorado Springs, Col., July 14, 1884, to Mrs. Virginia Coggeshall, of Cheyenne."

EUGENE NELSON ASTON.

Died in Springfield, Mass., Feb. 28, 1878.

See Secretary's Report No. 3 (1880), pp. 7, 8.

FRANCIS EATON BABCOCK.

Since 1884, has continued in partnership with Mr. Sargent, under the firm name of Wingate P. Sargent & Babcock, as New England agents for Gilbert Manufacturing Company's silesias, linings, etc., now at 42 and 44 Bedford Street, Boston. Resides at 10 East Brookline Street, Boston.

WALTER BAKER.

Writes from Covington, Ky., as follows: "In the spring of 1884, I was called to succeed Dr. Muhlenberg as pastor and superintendent of St. Johnland, a village of charities in Suffolk County, N. Y. This village of six hundred acres has some forty buildings under the corporation, the headquarters of which is in New York City. Among these are a church, a school-house, a village hall and a library, a printing house and stereotype foundry, several trade shops and a number of charities. . . . I had been in charge of St. Johnland only four months when my health broke down, and for some weeks I was not expected to live. After three months' treatment in St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, I was somewhat better. At that time I was urged by the board to go abroad, and they kindly offered to give me such additional assistance at St. Johnland as I might require; but on account of my health I resigned my position there in December, 1884, and spent the following winter and summer with my brothers in Brooklyn, N. Y., and Boston. In January, 1886, I was so much improved that I came to Covington, Ky., with my brother, Rev. Frank Woods Baker (H. U. 1881), and to him I have given such assistance as I could. The change from the seaboard to this inland city has benefited me greatly. I have written several articles for the papers here. In 1886, I addressed, at the request of Bishop Dudley, the Council of Kentucky, upon 'Lay Work in reference to Young Men,' and in 1887, I was one of the appointed speakers at the Church Congress Meeting at Louisville. In 1888, I declined a proposal to superintend our United Charities in Louisville, feeling that I was not strong enough for that work; for the same reason I declined to be interviewed in regard to two parishes in Ohio and one in Kentucky, but I hope to do full work before long. . . . "

WILLIAM HOWARD BAKER, the son of Alfred Edward and Hannah Peirce (Speakman) Baker, was born near Coatesville, Chester County Pa., Sept. 2, 1852.

When he was only two years old his father died. Until he was thirteen he lived near his native village, when, in 1865, the family removed to Philadelphia, where Baker at first attended the Friends' Central High School. In 1867 he was obliged to give up all study for one year on account of illness, but resumed his preparation for college in February, 1868, under Reginald H. Chase (Harvard, 1852). He entered as Freshman in 1870, but continued his studies in Philadelphia with Mr. Chase for one year. He joined the class in 1871, at the beginning of the Sophomore year, but in December was obliged to leave his work on account of a long-standing trouble with his eyes. In December, 1872, he again resumed work for a brief period; but it was not till the fall of 1873 that he was again able to return to Cambridge, after having had a tumor removed from the socket of the left eye in the preceding summer. He was a member of the Everett Athenæum, Pi Eta and Phi Alpha societies. After graduation, he spent eighteen months in Europe, one year of the time being spent at Heidelberg in the study of International Law and Political Science. On his return from Europe he immediately entered upon the study of law in Philadelphia, where he attended the lectures of the University of Pennsylvania, and read law in the office of George L. Crawford, Esq. On the 30th of June, 1877, he was admitted to the bar, and on the 22d of the following August was married to Mary Morton, daughter of Lemuel (Harvard, 1885) and Ann Maria (Buckminster) Stephens. He died at his home in Philadelphia, Jan. 24, 1885. His widow and only child, Ruth Stephens Baker, born Jan. 25, 1882, survive him.

Baker's early life gave him a love for the country, which never left him, and it was to those earliest years he was most fond of referring. Often did he express his regret that his profession should necessitate a city residence, and that in this way his child should be debarred from pleasures which to him had so much worth. Left as the oldest of three children, with a naturally self-reliant disposition, and great good sense, he was from early age the counsellor of his mother, and by the time of his death had many about him who were dependent on his judgment. Owing to his forced absence from a large portion of his college course, he was not a well-known member of the class, and did not attain the rank which would otherwise have been his. Baker was a most earnest worker, taking great interest in all his studies and in the work of his profession.

It may have been his love of the country which led Baker to take an active part in the work of the Country Week Association of Philadelphia. To this society, which aims to give to the children of the poor of the city an opportunity of spending a short time each summer in the open air, Baker devoted much of his spare time, which, had it been taken for rest and recreation, might have enabled his system to resist the inroad of disease. Quiet and unpretending, fond of play and fond of work, a man, from childhood, of the soundest judgment, and upon whom all reliance could be placed, Baker was a classmate and a friend to be proud of.

N. D. C. H.

At the class meeting on Commencement, June 24, 1885, a tribute of respect to the memory of our classmate, prepared by a committee consisting of N. D. C. Hodges, Hill, and G. W. White, was adopted, and copies of the same, with the above obituary notice then presented and read, were at once sent to the family of the deceased and to each member of the class. A card announcing his death was also sent to the class Feb. 5, 1885.

CHARLES PARKER BANCROFT.

Since the last report, has remained in the position of Superintendent of the New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane at Concord, N. H. Was married Aug. 6, 1884, at Newton, Mass., to Susan C. Wood; a son, Charles Parker, Jr., was born May 28, 1886, but died Sept. 29, 1887; a daughter, Jeannette, was born Sept. 22, 1888.

HARRY HUDSON BARRETT.

Writes as follows: "Continues to practise law, with offices at 23 Court Street, Boston, and at 11 Dartmouth Street, Malden, Mass. Resides in Malden."

GIORGIO ANACLETO CORRADO BENDELARI.

Was Assistant Professor of Modern Languages at Yale College until June, 1888; was then appointed Instructor in History at Harvard, where he has since remained, having a room in the college yard. In June, 1888, received an honorary degree of A. M. from Yale.

THOMAS SIMMS BETTENS.

Since September, 1878, has been teaching in the private school of Arthur H. Cutler (H. U. 1870) at 20 West Forty-third Street, New York City, and resides at the Kensington, 102 East Fifty-seventh Street; intends to pass this summer in Europe.

WOODBURY BLAIR.

Is still residing in Washington, D. C., and practising law there, with offices at room 39, Corcoran Building.

GEORGE ANDREW BLANEY.

Writes as follows: "Since 1884, have continued to reside at Swampscott, Mass., and to practise law in Boston. Since May 1, 1888, have been in partnership with Hon. Charles Robinson, under the firm name of Robinson & Blaney, with offices at rooms 25 and 26, 209 Washington Street. Oct. 9, 1886, a son, George, was born, and Nov. 9, 1886, Marguerite Germaine died."

ERASTUS BRAINERD.

When last heard from, in 1884, he was living in Philadelphia, Pa., and was on the staff of the Press of that city. Was married in 1882. (No report.)

JOHN WINTERS BRANNAN.

Writes as follows: "In May, 1884, left Colorado Springs, and has since then been practising medicine in New York City. Is a member of the New York County Medical Society, New York Academy of Medicine, and the New York Pathological Society. Is the Medical Director of the Washington Life Insurance Company of New York City. Was for three years one of the physicians to out-patients at Roosevelt Hospital; is now assistant physician to out-patient department of New York Hospital, and one of the medical corps attached to the French Hospital in New York City. A son, Philip Doddrige, was born Sept. 14, 1888; died Oct. 26, 1888." Resides at 54 West Eleventh Street, New York City.

GEORGE RUSSELL BRIGGS.

Has continued to live in Plymouth, Mass., and to devote himself, for the most part, to the cultivation of cranberries, having a large number of acres of swamp land in Plymouth under cultivation, and from which cranberries have been very successfully grown and sold by him.

JOHN CHAPIN BRINSMADE.

Writes as follows: "I am still principal of the boarding-school in Washington, Litchfield County, Conn., known as the 'Gunnery,' my brother (H. U. 1881) being my leading assistant, and the school is a prosperous institution. My third child, Chapin, was born March 1, 1885; Eleanor, Nov. 15, 1886, and Mary, Nov. 18, 1888."

ALEXANDER PORTER BROWNE.

Continues to practise law in Boston, being the junior partner in the firm of Browne & Browne, with offices at 82 Water Street; is secretary of the St. Botolph Club and a member of the Papyrus Club. Resides at 139 Beacon Street, Boston.

CHARLES THOMAS BUFFUM.

Has continued to practise medicine in New York City, having his office and residence at 12 East Twenty-eighth Street; is a member of the New York County Medical Society and of the New York Academy of Medicine. May 9, 1889, was married in New York City to Elizabeth Newton Bradley.

HENRY MORGAN BURDETT.

Writes as follows: "I was admitted at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 13, 1886, to practise as attorney and counsellor. I tried to carry out the suggestion of my sheepskin from that date in New York City until Oct. 4, 1888, when I left for Ellsworth, Kansas, where I was admitted Nov. 8, 1888, to practise 'in the District and Inferior Courts of the State of Kansas,' and have since been practising law and residing here. . . . I was appointed Dec. 3, 1888, as lay reader for Ellsworth by Rt. Rev. E. S. Thomas, Assistant Bishop of Kansas."

WILLIAM APPLETON BURNHAM.

Writes as follows: "Resides at 87 Beacon Street, Boston, at Manchester, Mass., and has an office at 40 Water Street, Boston. Is married and has four children. . . . Frederic Munroe, the fourth child, was born July 19, 1888."

WILLIAM BURRY.

Writes as follows: "The law firm of Isham, Lincoln, Burry & Ryerson, of which I was a member at the date of the last report, was dissolved in April, 1885. From that time until November, 1888, I practised law in this city alone. Since then I have been in partnership with John S. Runnells, Esq., under the firm name of Runnells & Burry. Our address is room 817, 218 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill. I am still unmarried and entirely devoted to the law."

JAMES JACKSON CABOT.

Died in Boston, Mass., June 13, 1875.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 11, 12.

THOMAS CARY.

Continues to reside at 184 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., and has his law office now at room 78, White Building, in that city; is still engaged principally in the management of a large estate of which he is executor.

EDWARD WARREN CATE.

Is practising law in Boston, with offices in the Minot Building, 113 Devonshire Street; is still Clerk of the Police Court of Newton, Mass., to which office he was first appointed by Gov. Long, in 1881; and has been elected President of the Newton Water Board each year since 1883. Is married.

GEORGE HERBERT CATE.

Writes as follows: "I was pastor of the Congregational Church in Collinsville, Conn., until September, 1884. Was called to Minneapolis, Minn., in June, 1885; organized a Sunday school and began mission work there, and was soon after called to the Mayflower Congregational Church of that city and remained its pastor until July, 1887. Was then called to the Congregational Church in Traverse City, Mich., and in November, 1888, to the Congregational Church in Cheboygan, Mich., where I am at present. I have two children, both boys, the younger, Herbert Addison, born March 18, 1886. In addition to my regular pastoral work I have written various articles for the press. I have also delivered lectures on educational topics before schools and teachers' associations, lectured on temperance, and on travels in Egypt and Palestine."

HENRY ARNOTT CHISHOLM.

Has been since Jan. 1, 1877, one of the partners in the firm of William Chisholm & Sons, manufacturers, and proprietors of the Chisholm Steel Shovel Works, of which he is also superintendent, in Cleveland, Ohio. Is married and has one child. Resides at 142 Huntington Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

ARTHUR BLAKE CLAPP.

Is still practising law in Boston, having his office in the Adams Building, 28 Court Street. (No report.)

HENRY ALDEN CLARK.

Writes as follows: "I am still a member of the law firm of McCreary & Clark, 704 State Street, Erie, Pa., being associated in business with my father-in-law, Gen. David B. McCreary. I was elected in February, 1888, from the First Ward of the city of Erie, as a Common Councilman for one year beginning April, 1888. I took an active part in the Presidential campaign last fall. June 3, 1889, I was elected secretary of the Republican County Committee of Erie County for the ensuing year. . . ." Was married in 1878, and has two children; his second child, Alden, was born Feb. 10, 1889.

LOUIS CRAWFORD CLARK.

Has continued as a member of the firm of Clark, Dodge & Co., bankers and brokers, at 51 Wall Street, New York City. His third child, Mary de Forest, was born Feb. 27, 1885, and Henry Cannon, Aug. 27, 1888. Resides at 311 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and has a summer residence at Burlington, Vt.

CHARLES CECIL CLARKE.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service, and writes from San Francisco, Cal., April 30, 1889, as follows: "I returned to China in the spring of 1884, and was appointed to Shanghai, where I served over two years. My wife died there Feb. 3, 1886, and in July of that year I was sent to take charge of the Customs at the port of Kiungchow in the Island of Hainan. I held that post until I obtained leave in March of this year. A more uneventful life than that I led in Hainan could not well be imagined, and nothing tempted me to break its peace. I have a couple of years' leave, and shall celebrate our fifteenth anniversary in the good old style."

SAMUEL BELCHER CLARKE.

Was an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York from October, 1877, to Jan. 1, 1886, when his resignation took effect; has since practised law in New York City, until May 1, 1889, as a member of the firm of Root & Strong, and since then with Elihu Root, Esq., and Joseph Kunzmann, Esq., under the firm name of Root & Clarke, with offices in the Mutual Life Building, 32 Nassau Street; recently published a pamphlet entitled "Current Objections to the Exaction of Economic Rent by Taxation Considered." Is married and has two children.

ARTHUR CLIFFORD.

Died February 26, 1881.

See Secretary's Report No. 4 (1884), pp. 13, 14.

GEORGE OLIVER GEORGE COALE.

Has continued to practise law in Boston, making a specialty of patent law, and has had his office since April 1, 1888, at 85 Water Street. Has written articles relating to his specialty for scientific magazines. Is married and has two children, his son, William Edward, being born Jan. 4, 1887. Is a director of the Harvard Musical Association, and president of the "Cecilia," also a musical society. Resides on Sedgwick Street, Jamaica Plain (Boston), Mass.

FREDERIC K. COLLINS.

Writes from Cleveland, Ohio, as follows: "Have lived in this city except the last seven months of 1885, when I had domicile in Boston, and most of 1886, when I was in Cambridge, Mass. During my residence in Cleveland, I have been engaged in a combination of a little law, some authorship, and some real-estate matters, largely for my own family, and have thereby gained more experience than wealth." His change of residence to Massachusetts was made on account of ill health, and while there he "gave attention to real-estate matters, and was in 1886, assistant to the editor of the Literary World, writing reviews for that paper. One of the longest and perhaps best that I did was of Lieut. Greeley's volume of Arctic explorations." Has an office at 236 Superior Street in Cleveland; is a director of the Brush Electric Light and Power Company, a vestryman in Grace Parish, and a director in a philanthropic organization called the Cleveland Athenæum.

THOMAS CORLIES.

Was in the employ of Williams & Terhune, freight brokers, in New York City, during the year 1886, and was with the Norton Manufacturing Company, of Walpole, Mass., for some time after June, 1887. Is not now in active business, but expects to be next fall.

HENRY HORACE CROCKER.

Has been since May 12, 1883, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and has his office still at 51 Wall Street. Resides at 54 West Twenty-first Street, New York City.

FREDERIC CUNNINGHAM.

Has continued to practise law in Boston, having his office at 30 Court Street. Is married, and has four children : twin daughters, Hetty Sullivan and Harriet Cutler, born June 27, 1885 ; Constance, born Sept. 8, 1886, and Frederic, Jr., born Dec. 28, 1888. Resides in Brookline, Mass.

FREDERICK SPAULDING CUTTER.

Writes as follows : " In June, 1884, resigned his position as master of the Centre Grammar School in Natick, Mass., and became agent of the Committee on School Supplies, in Cambridge, Mass. In March, 1886, was appointed to his present position of sub-master in the Harvard Grammar School in Cambridge. Is secretary of the Massachusetts Schoolmasters' Club." Resides at 273 Harvard Street, Cambridgeport, Mass.

PAUL DANA.

Has continued in the office of the Sun, published by his father, Charles A. Dana, Esq., at 168 Nassau Street, New York City, and has an active share in the management of that paper. Was married Nov. 11, 1884, in New York City, to Mary Duncan Butler Duncan ; has one child, Janet Percy, born May 29, 1886. Is on the staff of Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, of First Brigade, N. G. S. N. Y., with the rank of major.

RICHARD HENRY DANA.

Writes as follows : " Has been secretary of the Massachusetts Civil Service Reform League for about five years. Has appeared before various committees of the Massachusetts Legislature every year in support of the reform, has written and lectured for that cause, and beginning with the February number, 1889, has edited the Civil Service Record. Took the stump for Cleveland in 1884, and has supported tariff reform. In the winter, 1887-88, drafted a bill for the introduction of the Australian balloting system into Massachusetts, which is substantially the Ballot Act of 1888, Chap. 436. Wrote numerous articles in support of the system for the press and general circulation, appeared in 1888 and 1889 before committees of the Legislature on behalf of the new system, and gave numerous public addresses illustrated by actual voting with compartment shelves, etc. On May 1, 1888, wrote a letter to the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, supporting athletics at Cambridge, in reply to a report of a committee of the Overseers. (See Boston daily papers of May 2, 1888.) On Feb. 23, 1889, delivered an address on 'Civil Service Reform under President Cleveland,' at Baltimore, Md.; in 1886 contributed to the Forum an article entitled 'Substitutes for the Caucus.' In 1885, completed a summer house at Manchester, Mass., and in the autumn of 1888, moved to his new home, 113 Brattle Street, Cambridge. His fourth child, Allston, was born Sept. 29, 1884, and his fifth, Edmund Trowbridge, Oct. 25, 1886. Still practises law and manages trusts at 30 Court Street, Boston."

Died at Upper Saint Regis Lake, N. Y., Aug. 7, 1881.
See Secretary's Report No. 4 (1884), pp. 16, 17.

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.

Writes as follows: "I continued on the staff of the Philadelphia Press until April, 1887, when I was invited to take editorial charge of the New York Epoch, a weekly periodical founded by one of the Seligmans. It seemed like an excellent opening, but it proved anything but a pleasant experience, though it had its amusing side. This connection lasted only until the following July. After spending the summer pleasantly by the sea-shore I received an offer to enter the employ of the publishing house of T. Y. Crowell & Co., as general literary adviser, and simultaneously a rather more lucrative offer to remain in New York in my old capacity of teacher. I accepted the former, and have since resided in Boston. In the fall of 1888, I built a small house on Glen Road, next Franklin Park, and named it 'Hedgecote.' I have been mainly engaged in the work of translating since the beginning of 1886. I often wish I had lived in the time of Enoch when probably translating was more of a monopoly and hence more remunerative. Here is a list of which I am guilty: 'Anna Karénina,' 'Ivan Ilyitch and other stories,' 'The Invaders and other stories,' 'A Russian Proprietor and other stories,' 'The Long Exile and other stories for children,' 'Family Happiness,' 'The Cossacks,' a new translation of 'War and Peace,' all from the Russian of Count Tolstoï (who has been pleased to express his satisfaction with them), and many others, including translations from the French and Spanish, and a number of Goethe's minor works for the Barrie edition. I gave, in the spring of 1887, a course of six lectures on Russian Literature in Philadelphia and Germantown; rewrote them and gave them in the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre, New York City, in the spring of 1888. I also lectured in Deerfield, Mass., before the 'Summer School of History and Romance' (in 1887), and in Brooklyn on Tolstoï. . . ." Is married and has two children: Robert Montgomery, born June 13, 1884, and Arthur Alexander, March 14, 1886. Office in Boston is with T. Y. Crowell & Co., 65 Kingston Street.

GEORGE BUCKNAM DORR.

Has entered no profession or business since graduation; has travelled much in Europe and in this country, but has been at his home in Boston most of the time of late, spending his summers at Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert, Me. Resides at 18 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass.

JAMES DWIGHT.

On account of poor health, his practice of medicine has been interrupted; is still actively interested in tennis. Was married Jan. 12, 1887, to Elizabeth Iasigi; has one child, Dorothy, born July 15, 1888. Resides at 225 Beacon Street, Boston.

LOUIS DYER.

Remained in Cambridge as Assistant Professor of Greek and Latin until June, 1887, when his resignation took effect. In September following, he went abroad, intending to be absent about a year. (No report since 1887.)

WILLIAM SAMUEL ELIOT.

Died in Boston, Mass., Nov. 15, 1874.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 17, 18.

JOHN WHEELOCK ELLIOT.

Has continued to practise medicine in Boston, having his office at his residence, 75 Marlborough Street. In 1886 was appointed surgeon to out-patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Has published articles in "Wood's Handbook of Medical Science," and in the "Boston Medical and Surgical Journal." Is married.

FRANK WORCESTER ELWOOD.

Writes from Rochester, N. Y., as follows: "Shortly after writing you in 1884, my partnership with Mr. Scovill expired and I wound up my business as a stock broker and sold my 'exchange seat.' Since then I have practised law and attended to real-estate matters at my office, 32 Elwood Memorial Building, in Rochester. Such appointments as I have had and what I have written for publication are too unimportant to mention here. April 4, 1885, I was married at St. Paul's Church here to Frederica (Pumpelly) Raymond. . . ." Resides at 253 East Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

JOHN WOODFORD FARLOW.

Has continued to practise medicine in Boston, having his office at his residence, 234 Clarendon Street. Has recently been appointed physician for diseases of the throat in the out-patient department of the Carney Hospital; is chief medical officer of The Employers Liability Assurance Corporation, of London, England; is instructor in Gynæcology and in Laryngology in the Boston Polyclinic; is a member of the Boston Society for Medical Observation, and also of the Boston Society for Medical Improvement. Has contributed numerous articles to the "Boston Medical and Surgical Journal," one of which was also published in Paris in the "Archives de Laryngologie." Is married and has two children.

JACOB HAMILTON FARRAR.

Writes as follows: ". . . I shall add to my last report that I secured letters patent on my railroad signal, but never have been able to get them on my sub-sidewalk railroad, and we are in one constant state of irritation against the horse-cars, bridges, and cable-cars here in Chicago, and yet the patent laws of the United States are so peculiar that no matter how useful or profitable an innovation may be discovered, unless you put it down as such and such a shaped mass no patent will be allowed. It seems that some functionary features should be allowed. Served as clerk of election in my precinct from March, 1888, up to the present, and have had ample chance to verify the faults even of our new election law. Office, 'Long' John Wentworth's Building, 45 La Salle Street, and residence 492 Webster Avenue, Chicago, Ill."

FRANCIS CHILD FAULKNER.

Is still residing in Keene, N. H., and engaged in the practice of law there with A. T. Batchelder, Esq. (Dart. Coll. 1871), under the firm name of Batchelder & Faulkner. From March, 1882, to November, 1885, was a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the New Hampshire District; is a member of the present New Hampshire Legislature, being the representative from Ward 4 in Keene. Is married and has three children; his third child, Katharine Ripley, was born Jan. 31, 1889.

ERNEST FRANCISCO FENOLLOSA.

Has retained his connection with the Imperial University at Tokio, Japan, and is in charge of a new department, which has for its object, the development of the fine arts of Japan. In 1886, came to this country on a year's leave of absence. (No report.)

EDWARD MORTIMER FERRIS.

Writes as follows: "I have continued in the office of my father at 40 Summer Street, Boston, assisting in the care of his real estate and of his trusts. My father died April 6, 1889. Since then as the executor of his will I have had the management of his property, in addition to that of the most of his trusts. My third son, Raymond West, was born Dec. 4, 1885. My residence is at corner of Longwood and Sewall Avenues, Brookline, Mass."

GEORGE RUSSELL FESSENDEN.

Writes as follows: "Have continued practising medicine in Ashfield, Franklin County, Mass., since November, 1879. Was president of Franklin District Medical Society for two years, and of the councillors of Massachusetts Medical Society; president of Ashfield Library Association, and chairman of Republican town committee. Delivered a course of lectures in Anatomy and Physiology at Sanderson Academy. Was married in Southbridge, Mass., Dec. 4, 1885, to Kate Manilla Pratt. . . . Have one son, George Russell, Jr., born June 28, 1887."

BERNARD WHITMAN FLAGG.

When last heard of, in May, 1886, he was Professor of Botany in Pierce Christian College, at College City, Colusa County, Cal. (No report since 1880.)

ARTHUR WILLIAM FOOTE.

Is still teaching pianoforte playing and composition in Boston, and has been organist at the First Church in Boston since October, 1878; has conducted several singing societies, and has continued to give concerts of his own each year as well as to assist in concerts given by others. At the meeting of the American Unitarian Association at Saratoga, in 1886, he read a paper on "The Organ in Church," which was printed in the Christian Register; at the meeting of the Music Teachers' National Association in 1887, he read a paper on the "Use of the Pianoforte Pedal," which was printed in the Etude (a technical musical paper) and in the annual report of the meeting; and in April, 1889, he delivered a lecture in Sever Hall, Cambridge, to the undergraduates on "Music as a Profession." His compositions published include about a dozen songs for one voice (three for baritone, the others for a high voice); a dozen pianoforte pieces, the most important one being a suite (op. 15); several pieces for quartet; a string quartet; pianoforte trio, and half a dozen pieces for piano and violin or 'cello; two cantatas for chorus and orchestra ("The Wreck of the Hesperus," and "The Farewell of Hiawatha"). Besides these a MS. overture "In the Mountains," and a suite for string orchestra, have had various public performances, the first performance of each being in the Boston Symphony concerts; the suite for strings and the pianoforte trio have been played in London concerts, and the overture is to be played at a concert in Paris this summer. Has spent five summers in Europe, being at the Bayreuth Festivals of 1876, 1883, and 1888. Is married and has one child. Resides at 2 West Cedar Street, Boston.

Has resided in Salem Centre, Westchester County, N. Y., and latterly also at 277 West Seventy-third Street, New York City. Is married, and has three children ; his third child, Julia Dent, was born April 16, 1885.

CHARLES MONTRAVILLE GREEN.

Writes as follows: "During the five years since the last report I have continued the practice of medicine, and still live at 78 Marlborough Street, Boston. In October, 1884, I was appointed physician to out-patients in the department for diseases of women at the Boston City Hospital, and soon after resigned similar positions at the Boston Dispensary, and Free Hospital for Women ; July, 1885, I was appointed obstetric physician to the Boston Dispensary, and I continue as assistant physician to the Boston Lying-in Hospital. In December, 1885, I was promoted to the grade of Instructor in Obstetrics in Harvard University. In April, 1886, I was elected a censor of the Suffolk District Branch of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and have been annually re-elected up to the present time. In September, 1886, I was chosen a Fellow of the American Gynæcological Society. In the autumn of 1887, I withdrew from general practice and have since devoted myself exclusively to obstetrics and the diseases of women. I have read occasional papers before medical societies, and contributed editorials and reviews to medical journals. In December, 1888, I was elected a member of the Boston School Committee, receiving the nomination of the Citizens' Convention and subsequently of both the Democratic and Republican parties. Notwithstanding the fact that I am no longer in general practice, my love for the militia is so strong that I still retain my commission as Assistant Surgeon of the First Corps of Cadets, M. V. M." Is married and has one child.

SAMUEL BLAIR GRIFFITH.

Has continued to practise law in Mercer, Pa., in partnership with his father, under the firm name of Samuel Griffith & Son; has also given much time and attention to railroad and coal-mining property in Pennsylvania, and is also actively interested in politics; was nominated for Congress last year, but defeated, and was engaged in the contest on the prohibitory amendment to the State Constitution this month. Is married and has two children.

HERBERT LEE HARDING.

Writes as follows: "I have continued to practise law in Boston, my office being 56 Equitable Building, until May, 1888, when I moved to the Tremont Bank Building, 8 Congress Street, and took the partnership and offices with George Wigglesworth, which the Hon. Robert R. Bishop relinquished when he went on the bench. The firm name is now Harding & Wigglesworth. . . . I have taken great interest in municipal affairs (oftentimes miscalled 'politics'), and served as a member of the Boston Common Council in 1884, 1885, and 1886, from Ward 9. I was one of the organizers of the Citizens' Association of Boston, in December, 1887, and have been its secretary and counsel since organization. It seeks to aid in securing an 'honest, efficient, and economical administration of city affairs,' but without controlling nominations or offices. Our work has been interesting and as successful as could have been expected. I was married Oct. 13, 1886, in Charlestown, Mass., to Lucy Austin. We have lived on Hathaway Street, Jamaica Plain, and have one son, Francis Austin, born Oct. 1, 1887."

GEORGE IRWIN HAVEN.

In March, 1884, on account of poor health, left his business in Cincinnati, Ohio, and went to Europe, returning to this country in August, 1885. On the 22d of August, he left the Astor House in New York City, and nothing has since been known concerning him. Though all hope of ever finding him alive has been abandoned, at the request of his father, the Class Secretary has taken no formal action, and will not, until his parents wish his name to be placed on the roll of our deceased classmates.

WILLIAM DUFF HAYNIE.

Writes from Rapid City, Dak., as follows: "Practised law in Bloomington, Ill., until Aug. 17, 1885. Then removed to Washington, D. C., being confidential clerk and private secretary to the First Assistant Postmaster-General, Hon. A. E. Stevenson, and held that position until May, 1887, when I was appointed chief clerk of the First Assistant Postmaster-General's office and retained that position until March 4, 1889. Was married Jan. 30, 1889, in Washington, to Ella R. Thomas. Left Washington in February on leave, having tendered my resignation, to take effect on the coming in of the new administration. Reached Rapid City, Dak., soon after, and there formed a partnership in the practice of law with Hon. M. H. Day and A. W. Bangs, Esq. Prospects and skies are both bright."

EDWARD HIGGINSON.

Writes as follows: "Has continued to practise law in Fall River as a member of the firm of Dubuque & Higginson. In 1884, was re-elected to the Common Council, but was not a candidate the following year. May 22, 1886, was appointed a member of the Fall River Board of Civil Service Examiners, and served as secretary of the board until January, 1889, when he resigned membership. Jan. 7, 1889, was elected by the City Council to the office of City Solicitor for the unexpired term of Mayor Jackson (H. U. 1873), and also for the full term beginning March, 1889. Sept. 25, 1884, was married at Erie, Pa., to Kate Strong. Has two daughters: Anne Storrow, born April 26, 1887, and Mary Hamot, born May 7, 1889."

EDWARD BRUCE HILL.

Writes as follows: "I still reside in the city of New York, and still practise law at No. 58 Wall Street in said city, and have no partner. In company with Edgar Logan, Esq., I edited third edition of Gerard's 'Titles to Real Estate in the State of New York,' a book of considerable but purely local vogue, which came out in January, 1889." Is married and has one child.

AMORY GLAZIER HODGES.

Has continued in the stock business in New York City, and writes as follows: "Dec. 1, 1885, I severed my connection with E. K. Willard & Co., and Sept. 15, 1886, became associated with Frederic Taylor, under the firm name of Frederic Taylor & Co., at 84 Broadway, and this partnership still continues. In May, 1887, was elected a governor of the New York Stock Exchange for a term of one year, and in May, 1888, was re-elected for a term of four years. . . ." Was married in 1883, and has two children : Amory, born April 27, 1885, and Edward Carroll, born July 27, 1887. Resides at 6 Gramercy Park, New York City.

JOEL MARVIN LEONARD.

Remained in Newton, Mass., in charge of the church there, until 1886, when "I was appointed pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Westfield, Mass., where I continued as pastor for three years. In 1887, I passed my examinations in the School of all Sciences of Boston University, and received from that institution the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Since April, 1889, I have been pastor of Wesley Methodist Church of Salem, Mass." His second child, Ralph Davis, was born Aug. 6, 1886, and Ray Mason was born May 28, 1888.

FREDERIC HOWARD LOMBARD, the son of Ephraim and Mary Elizabeth (Hall) Lombard, was born in Boston, April 12, 1852.

In the year 1868, while at the English High School in Boston, where for two years he had distinguished himself by his excellent scholarship, he formed the desire to go to college and accordingly left the High School, and, after two years' study at the school of G. W. C. Noble, Esq., passed the Harvard examination without conditions in June, 1870.

The effects of the hard study which he had done while preparing for college in such short time showed themselves at the beginning of the Freshman year, and from October, 1870, to February, 1871, he was obliged by ill health to be absent from college; but in the spring of 1871, he rejoined the class and entered on what he himself described as four of the pleasantest years of his life. Into all the college and class interests he entered with enthusiasm. He was a member of the Institute, O. K., Glee Club, Hasty Pudding Club, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Harvard University Foot-ball Club, Le Cercle Français and Christain Union, and was also an editor of the Harvard Advocate.

During the year 1875-6, ill health compelled him to rest and to take a voyage to Fayal, and the year 1879-80 was spent in travel in Europe; but with these exceptions the time from graduation to the year 1881 was occupied in the study of Medicine at the Harvard Medical School, and at the École de Médecine and the hospitals of La Charité and La Salpétrière, in Paris. In 1881, he graduated from the Harvard Medical School, and from August of that year to August, 1882, he held the position of surgical "interne" at the Massachusetts General Hospital. The degree of M. D., of Harvard, was given him June 28, 1882, after this term of service. He then went again to Europe, and until September, 1883, he studied medicine in Vienna, Prague, Dresden, and Strasburg, living for five months in the hospitals, and winning high praise from the physicians in charge. Oct. 1, 1883, he began the practice of medicine in Boston, and continued this with marked and steadily increasing success to the time of his death. During his two years of active practice, he held two temporary appointments in the Lying-in Hospital, a position in the Boston Dispensary, and one in the Free Hospital for Women. He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and of the Boston Society for Medical Observation. A few weeks before his death he received the distinction of unanimous election to membership in the Obstetrical Society of Boston. This honor he fairly won, by communicating to the Society, by invitation, an admirable report of two cases of unusual interest, in the management of which he had exhibited marked professional ability. This report has been published, and has attracted favorable notice among physicians in Europe. In addition to his regular work, he had also lectured in some of the "Emergency" courses in Boston, and had given clinical lectures in the Summer School of Medicine,— showing an especial aptitude for work of this kind. He died in Boston, Dec. 15, 1885.

That he would have attained great professional success, if he had lived and kept his health, is the testimony of his fellow-physicians, who had the best opportunities for judging. He had already distinguished himself, and, in the words of one of the leading physicians, his life was one which neither the profession nor the community could afford to lose.

Thirty-three years was too short a time in which to achieve all that his friends predicted, but the symmetry and beauty of his character were shown as perfectly in that time as they could have been in a longer one. As college classmate, his unfailing good spirits and love of fun, the enthusiasm with which he threw himself into all the class interests, his unselfish thoughtfulness for others, and his unwavering adherence to what he believed right, won for him the good-will of all, and the deep love and trust of those who knew him best. The same traits which made him such a general favorite in college were shown in his professional work. With absolute fidelity to duty, he gave himself unsparingly to the service of his patients. He gave to all who sought his aid, not only medical care, but earnest help and sympathy in all their troubles. His kindness and his patience were never exhausted, and by the charm of his character, as well as by his medical skill, he gained the implicit confidence and the warm gratitude of those in his care. This has been repeatedly shown in his work among the poor, and his influence with them for good, in matters outside of his strictly professional work, was in some instances very remarkably proved. The conscientiousness and devotion which were shown in all his work made it the more wearing for himself. The very traits which won for him both gratitude and success helped to break down his health, and thus shortened a life, whose strength, tenderness, and spotless purity his friends will never cease to remember and will never cease to love.

G. W.

At the class meeting on Commencement, June 30, 1886, the tribute of respect to the memory of our classmate, prepared by a committee consisting of Wigglesworth, P. Dana and H. L. Morse, was formally presented and entered on the class records. This tribute with the above memorial notice was sent in February, 1886, to the family of the deceased, and to each member of the class. A card announcing his death was also sent to the class, Dec. 17, 1885.

JAMES DUANE LOWELL.

Has continued as a civil engineer with the Burlington and Missouri Railroad, a part of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad system, with his headquarters at Burlington, Iowa. (No report.)

HERBERT WARREN LULL.

Writes as follows: "I am still principal of the High School in Milford, Mass. This is my ninth year, and matters are moving along very peacefully and satisfactorily. I have passed through the 'chairs' in Montgomery Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and this year I am the District Deputy Grand Master of the Twentieth District. In the Milford Commandery, Knights Templars, I am Senior Warden. In 1886, I was president of the Worcester County Teachers' Association. In my school work I have had the pleasure of introducing the 'Industrial Exhibition,' a display of all conceivable articles which can be made by the hands of scholars. The results of 1884 and 1885 were so satisfactory and so highly commended by the New York and Boston papers, that several cities and towns adopted the scheme. In 1885, I gave a description of my methods before the High School Principals' Association in Boston. My outside writing has been entirely upon matters of the day or local subjects, and has been published in weekly or monthly papers. At present I am regularly filling a column for one of our town weeklies. . . ." Is married and has two children.

FRANK LYMAN.

His occupation has not materially changed since the last report, when he was manager of the Stack Mine (iron ore) at Backbone, Va., and had an office in New York City with residence in Brooklyn, N. Y. When last heard from, in May, 1887, was practising law in Chicago, Ill., with offices at 51 Portland Block in that city. (No report.)

WILLIAM STAPLES MARSTON.

Is still in charge of the University School for Boys, in Baltimore, Md., which he established in 1880, and which has been very successful and now contains one hundred scholars under six teachers. Was married in 1880, and has two sons.

WILLIAM CASTEIN MASON.

Writes as follows: "I still live in Bangor, Me., my native place, where I have practised medicine since 1878. Though the duties of my profession have largely occupied my time, I have taken an active part in the maintenance of the Penobscot County Medical Association, of which I was president from November, 1883, to November, 1885, and before which I have read a number of articles on medical subjects, among which are the following: 'Anæsthetics and Anæsthesia,' 'Poisoning by Cannabis Indica with Illustrative Cases,' 'Milk Fever and the Professional Relations of Physicians with each other.' I still retain the office of Acting Assistant Surgeon in the Marine Hospital Service to which I was appointed in 1884. In 1888, I became a member of the Bangor Historical Society, and also a Fellow of the American Academy of Medicine. I am much interested in the subject of Masonry, and hold office in several of the Grand Bodies of this State. I was married Nov. 13, 1884, at Bangor, to Nettie (Norris) Thomas, and have a son, William Norris, born Sept. 7, 1885. Office at 52 Main Street, and residence at 132 Hammond Street, Bangor, Me."

EDWIN GARRALD MERRIAM.

Writes as follows: "I reside at 1708 Oregon Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., and am holding the same position in the law department of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company as I did five years ago, viz., Assistant to the General Solicitor, now Hon. Alex. G. Cochrane, with offices in the Equitable Building in that city. The past five years have been to me quite uneventful." Is married.

HENRY FERDINAND MERRILL.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service, and writes from Seoul, Corea, March 23, 1889, as follows: "After my return from America in the autumn of 1883, I was stationed at Shanghai for nine months. In September, 1884, I went to Takow, Formosa, where I remained until June, 1885, being shut in during six months of that time by the French blockading squadron, Formosa being the principal seat of warlike operations in the war between China and France. From Takow I went to Peking, and after remaining there two months I was appointed Chief Commissioner of Customs in the tributary Kingdom of Corea, which post I have held since September, 1885. I have been counting upon being with the class at the dinner this year, and it is only at this late moment that to my great disappointment I am forced to relinquish the hope, for I find I cannot leave my post for that event. But it will be only a few months or possibly a year before I shall be able to take another run home. I last saw Spinney and Clarke in September, 1885, at Shanghai, where, Morse being present too, we four '74 men had the pleasure of being together for the first time since the year of our arrival in China. I have seen Morse again in 1888. Clarke is now on his way home, and I trust will speak for himself and the rest of us, when he meets you. Spinney is at Canton and Morse at Kiungchow in Hainan. I am still an old bachelor, but my house is ably presided over by my sister, who has been with me since 1886."

HENRY CHILDS MERWIN.

Writes as follows: "I am practising law in Boston, with my office at 40 Water Street, and also writing editorial articles and paragraphs for the Boston Post. I have contributed to the 'Atlantic Monthly' during the past year a paper on the Telephone, another on Telephone Litigation, an essay about the People in Government, and two articles on Trotting Horses, these being the first two of a horse series. For Buck's 'Handbook of the Medical Sciences' I have written articles on Malpractice, Vivisection, The Medico-Legal Aspect of Cerebro-Spinal Injuries, and Doctors' Vehicles and Horses. During the past three years, I have also written numerous short essays for the Epoch." Besides at Concord, Mass.

ETHELBERT SMITH MILLS.

By reason of ill health, has been unfitted to engage in any business or occupation since his return from California in 1881, whither he went in pursuit of health. His home is at 150 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JAMES JACKSON MINOT.

Has continued to practise medicine in Boston, now having his office at his residence, 188 Marlborough Street; is, by appointment, physician to Boston Dispensary, and to out-patient departments of Massachusetts General Hospital and Carney Hospital, and is instructor in the Boston Polyclinic. Was married Oct. 30, 1884, at Milton, Mass., to Elizabeth Whitney; has one child, George Richards, born Dec. 2, 1885.

EUGENE USHER MITCHELL.

Died in Port au Prince, Hayti, Aug. 29, 1881.

See Secretary's Report No. 4 (1881), pp. 31, 32.

HENRY LEE MORSE.

Has continued to practise medicine in Boston, now having his office at 112 Marlborough Street. In 1886, was elected a member of the American Otological Society; in 1888, was appointed Assistant Surgeon of the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, and in 1887, Surgeon in the aural department of the Boston Dispensary. With Dr. B. A. Randall, of Philadelphia, published an anatomical atlas, entitled "Photographic Illustrations of the Anatomy of the Human Ear, together with Pathological Conditions of the Drum Membrane"; has also published several articles on diseases of the ear in medical journals. Was married June 23, 1884, in Montreal, Canada, to Jessie Frances Lizzie Scott; has one child, Janet Cooper, born Oct. 21, 1886.

HOSEA BALLOU MORSE.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service, and writes as follows: "I was stationed at Tientsin until June, 1885, when I was, on the nomination of the Viceroy, H. E. Li Hung-Chang, appointed commissioner, with a Chinese colleague, to arrange the exchange of prisoners at the end of the war with France. On my return I received by special imperial rescript the decoration of the Double Dragon of China. In August, 1885, I was appointed by the Viceroy to supervise the transfer from Russell & Co. to the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company, of the fleet and wharf and warehouse property formerly belonging to the company, but sold to Russell & Co. in 1884, and repurchased in 1885, the price paid being about six million taels (or seven million dollars gold). The details of the transfer were completed in six months, but I remained to assist and advise the directors until August, 1887. In the September following I was withdrawn from my detached duty and appointed to Peking, to be Acting Assistant Secretary on the Inspectorate Staff. In November, 1887, the question of Bonded Warehouses came to the front, and as I had given the subject some attention, I was appointed to Shanghai, charged with the organization of the Bonded Warehouses which were opened Jan. 1, 1888. I was at the same time promoted to be Deputy Commissioner. The organization did not take long, and in three months was considered established. In April, 1888, I was appointed to the post of Assistant Statistical Secretary on the Inspectorate Staff stationed at Shanghai. While there I took some interest in local matters, as Secretary of the Asiatic Society and of the Shanghai Library (15,000 vols.), as one of the committee on the Polytechnic Institute, and on the board of directors of the Society for the Diffusion of Christian and General Knowledge among the Chinese. I was this month (March, 1889) appointed Acting Commissioner of Customs at Pakhoi, and left Shanghai early this month, but have not yet reached my new post, as I stopped on the way to relieve C. C. Clarke, and to be Acting Commissioner at Kiung-chow on Hainan. The definite commissioner will arrive next week, when I go on to my post at Pakhoi. In June, 1891, I hope to see you all."

WILLIAM LAMBERT MORSE.

Writes as follows: "Since 1877, I have been in active business as a partner in the firm of Morse & Bigelow, doing a general merchandise business in Marlboro', Mass., where I have resided since graduation. Have served six years on the school committee, and was elected this spring for another term of three years. At the last two elections received the unanimous vote of all parties. Travelled during the summer and fall of 1888 abroad for my health, visiting Great Britain, France, Italy, and Switzerland." Is married, and has one child living.

THEODORE WILLIAM MOSES.

Writes as follows: "A bread-winner, with a pleasant occupation, teaching privately nearly all the year, sufficient social diversion to keep from becoming a fossil, and adequate financial returns to insure reasonable comfort. Contented as becomes a philosopher, unsatisfied as regards human ambition." Resides at the Benedick, 80 Washington Square East, New York City.

HENRY SANFORD MUDGE.

In 1884 disposed of his cattle herds and ranches in Hodgeman County, Kan., and has not since been in active business. (No report since 1877.)

RICHARD COLE NEWTON.

Writes from Montclair, N. J., as follows: "I remained at Fort Elliott, Texas, as post surgeon, until Nov. 9, 1887; and on Nov. 19, I reported for duty as assistant to post surgeon at David's Island in New York Harbor. Having learned that there was an opportunity to go into civil practice at Montclair, N. J., I obtained a leave of absence for four months in November, 1888. I moved my family here, and put out my shingle. We were so much pleased with the place that I resigned my commission as assistant surgeon, United States Army, and my resignation took effect, May 22, 1889. We have settled here, and I hope to live and die on Jersey's soil. I belong to the Essex District and New Jersey State Medical Societies, and to the Montclair Medical Society. I intend to join the Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men of New Jersey, the Harvard Club of New York City, and the Society of the Alumni of Charity Hospital, New York City. I also belong to the Montclair Club, and Montclair Council, No. 421, Royal Arcanum. Our son, Richard, died Jan. 18, 1888; our second son, Byerly, was born July 21, 1887, and our third son, not yet named, was born Jan. 23, 1889. Since 1884, I have not done much literary work. Have had two original articles in the Medical Record,

New York, and a report of mine on Texas Cattle Fever, to the Surgeon-General of the United States Army, was published in his annual report of 1886. Besides these I have published a few minor articles, and I have at present some manuscript which I hope to bring out." Office is on Bloomfield Avenue, and residence on Fullerton Avenue, Montclair, N. J.

WILLIAM ICHABOD NICHOLS.

Writes as follows: "In October, 1884, I was settled as minister of the First Congregational Society (Unitarian), in Littleton, Mass., and still occupy the same position. During this time I have had an uneventful but happy experience as a minister of an excellent society in a pleasant country town, thirty miles from Boston. I have made frequent visits to Boston, averaging not less than once a week, and have taken a small part in the work of two or three of the charitable and reformatory associations in that city. I have been for the past two years a member of the Massachusetts Reform Club, and of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, in the objects of both of which I am deeply interested. My participation in politics has been limited to a few addresses delivered in my own or neighboring towns."

JOHN PARSONS.

In August, 1884, resigned as acting pastor of the Dayville Congregational Church, at Killingly, Conn., which position he occupied from May 1, 1883; spent the winter of 1884-5, in Worcester, Mass., and the summer following, at Jefferson, N. H.; in February, 1886, removed to Denver, Col., where he now resides, and is engaged in the real-estate business there. Resides at 1121 Seventeenth Street, Denver, Col.

JOHN SIDNEY PATTON.

Writes as follows: "I have continued the practice of law for the past five years in Boston, at 34 School Street, alone until January, 1887, and then with Lafayette G. Blair, Esq. (H. U. 1878), until March of the present year; am now again alone in practice. Was married April 15, 1885, in Cambridge, Mass., to Anna Kelly. Children: John Sidney, Jr., born May 3, 1886, and Elizabeth Edwards, born Nov. 17, 1888, and died March 18, 1889. I reside at 14 Reedsdale Street, Allston (Boston), Mass."

CHARLES SHERBURNE PENHALLOW.

Since February, 1879, has been in the office of J. Montgomery Sears, Esq., Sears Building, Boston. Was married in 1881, and has four children; his third child, Eveline Blunt, was born March 16, 1885, and Pearce Wentworth, May 20, 1888. Resides at 56 Eliot Street, Jamaica Plain (Boston), Mass.

WILLIAM MAY PERKINS.

On account of poor health was obliged to give up the profession of music, and for the past six years has been in the employ of the West End Street Railway Company in Boston. Has been twice married: his first wife, Jennie R. Beattie, to whom he was married Nov. 10, 1881, in Somerville, Mass., died in June, 1882; Oct. 20, 1883, he was married, in Boston, to Ellen Augusta Carr; has three children,—William Henry, born June 14, 1882; Charles Edward, born Dec. 26, 1885; and Arthur Albert, born April 16, 1888. Resides at 50 Sever Street, Charlestown (Boston), Mass.

MARSHALL LIVINGSTON PERRIN.

Writes as follows: "My last report, in 1884, did not reach you in season for the class issue, and therefore I will begin with 1880. From that year until 1883, I was teaching in Charles W. Stone's school for boys in Boston. In the summer of 1881, I worked across the Western Ocean on the ship 'Assyrian,' and spent my time on shore wandering through Ireland, Scotland, and England. In 1882, after travelling through the British Provinces and Newfoundland, I made a short voyage along the Labrador coast, up to Hamilton Inlet, and among the whalers on the Greenland coast. In 1883, I left for Germany, where I remained for five years, staying during the semesters at the Universities, first as a student, and for the last three years as instructor of English at the University of Göttingen, and spending the long vacations in travelling through the Continent. In 1888, I returned home to take charge of the department of German and Anglo-Saxon in Boston University, where I now am. Was married Feb. 23, 1889, to Mary Josephine Williams, of Walpole, N. H. Shall be abroad again this summer." Resides at Wellesley Hills, Mass.

EDWARD GOULD PETERS.

Continued in the practice of law at San Francisco, Cal., until June, 1886, when he returned to Boston, and subsequently, on account of poor health, went to Europe. The past year, has had an office in the Minot Building, 113 Devonshire Street, Boston. Is now abroad. (No report.)

ARTHUR HOWARD PICKERING.

Writes as follows: "Since 1884, I have devoted myself to giving courses of readings from Browning, Sophocles, and other authors, in Boston and other cities, having given over fifty readings from Robert Browning, in Boston alone. Have also taught, more or less, having had pupils every year in readings. Have done some journalistic work for the Boston Home Journal and Boston Herald over the signature of 'Carrington.' I passed the summer of 1887 in England, and hope to sail again for England on the 18th (May), from New York." Resides at 64 Dudley Street, Roxbury (Boston), Mass.

WILLIAM TAGGARD PIPER.

Writes as follows: "I have continued to live in Cambridge, but in the summer of 1885, moved from Concord Avenue to a new house I had built on the corner of Brattle and Fayerweather Streets. In December, 1887, I was elected a member of the Common Council of Cambridge, from Ward 1, and was re-elected last December. My third child, Anne Taggard, was born Sept. 26. 1887." Resides at 174 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Mass.

SYLVESTER PRIMER.

Writes as follows: "I still continue a Professor of Modern Languages at the College of Charleston, in Charleston, S. C. During the last five years I have been a member of the Modern Language Association, and have contributed various papers, viz.: in 1884, 'The Factive in German'; in 1885, 'The Adjectival and Adverbial Relations; their Influence upon the Government of the Verb'; in 1887, 'Charleston's Provincialisms'; and in 1888, 'The Huguenot Element in Charleston's Pronunciation.' Besides these articles, I have written various reviews for Prof. Gildersleeve's 'America's Journal of Philology,' and articles for the 'Modern Language Notes.' I like my work very much, and enjoy the solution of philological problems. We have just started an 'American Dialect Society,' and hope to show good results in the next few years. I have an excellent field here in the South, and shall improve my opportunities. I still remain alone, and am thus enabled to devote my whole attention to my studies." Resides at 49 Rutledge Street, Charleston, S. C.

FRANK ELDRIDGE RANDALL.

Is still practising law in New York City, having removed his office in May, 1887, to Aldrich Court, 45 Broadway. In 1884, 1886, 1887, and 1888, was in Europe for "several months each year, visiting those places most frequently seen by tourists."

NICHOLAS REED.

Died in Boston, Mass., Nov. 16, 1874.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 33, 34.

HUNTINGTON RICHARDS.

Has continued to practise medicine in New York City, and writes as follows: "In December, 1886, I was appointed Aural Surgeon at New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, and on the opening of the Mrs. Vanderbilt Clinic (the out-patient department of the College of Physicians and Surgeons), I was appointed to the position of Chief of Clinic in the Aural Department of same, and I still hold both of these positions. My association in practice with Dr. Buck continues, and since May, 1886, we have had offices at the Allston, 19 East Thirty-eighth Street, New York City."

WILLIAM REUBEN RICHARDS.

Writes as follows: "A bachelor, I reside at 2 Marlborough Street, Boston, and practise law at 27 State Street. Entered partnership with John O. Shaw Jr. (Class of '73), and George Lemist Clarke, in 1887, under firm name of Richards, Shaw & Clarke. In 1886, 1887, and 1888, was a member of the Boston Common Council, and in 1889, was appointed one of the Trustees of the Boston Public Library. Am a member of the Eastern Yacht Club, Union Club, Abstract Club, Boston Athletic Association, Papyrus Club, St. Botolph Club, and Union Boat Club. Of the last I am secretary, and I am one of the executive committee of the two preceding. I am also secretary of the Boston Athenæum. In the summer of 1887, took a trip to Europe, travelling through Ireland, Scotland, and England, spending a month in each, and revisited Dresden and Berlin. Occasionally, write for the papers, and am now filling the position of treasurer of the Boston Post."

GEORGE CARR RICHARDSON.

In 1884 was in the auditor's office of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, at Milwaukee, Wis., and is believed to be now in the same office. Is married. Resides at Wauwatosa, Milwaukee Co., Wis. (No report.)

WILLIAM RICHMOND.

In December, 1884, returned from abroad, after a nine-months visit, and, April 18, 1885, accepted the rectorship of All Saints' Parish, Orange, N. J., which he still holds. Resides at Orange Valley, N. J.

GEORGE RIDDLE.

Writes as follows: "Since 1884 I have devoted myself to readings, my tours having extended from Maine to California, and from St. Louis to Winnipeg, Manitoba. In looking back, it seems to me that I have accomplished nothing worthy of note. Therein I am a pessimist. I am yet hopeful, with the assistance of good health, of achieving something and of vanquishing my enemies, of whom, thank heaven, I have many. Therein I am an optimist. To me life would be nothing without the struggle; and if I receive enough knock-downs I shall be very glad." Resides at 6 Arrow Street, Cambridge, Mass.

ARTHUR LANDON RIVES.

Has not been in any active business or profession. He spends the winter months mostly in Washington, D. C., and in the summer is at Newport, R. I. (No report since 1877.)

HENRY BELLOWS ROBERTS.

Has continued as pastor of the Congregational Church in West Hartford, Conn., over which he was installed Dec. 20, 1883. Was married in 1880, and has four children; his third child, Emir, was born March 12, 1885, and Dorothy was born Sept. 14, 1887.

CALVIN PROCTOR SAMPSON.

Has continued to practise law in Boston, now having his office at 131 Devonshire Street. Is also treasurer of the Tyler Steel Tube Company, a "company which is alleged to make, under a new process, materials for modern high-pressure motor powers capable of permanently resisting tremendous pressure without shedding a tear. . . ." Was married in 1881, and has one child, Thompson Sawyer, born April 23, 1886. Resides at 9 Greenough Avenue, Jamaica Plain (Boston), Mass.

GEORGE PARTRIDGE SANGER.

Has continued in the general practice of law in Boston, having offices, since April 1, 1886, with his father, at rooms 65 and 66 Minot Building, 113 Devonshire Street. In January, 1887, was appointed a commissioner of the Court of Claims of Washington, D. C. June 14, 1888, was appointed by Gov. Ames a Master in Chancery for Suffolk County, Mass. In 1886 and 1887, was a member of the Boston Common Council from Ward 11, and the present year is a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, as a representative from that ward. Is married. Resides at 204 Beacon Street, Boston.

WILLIAM CARY SANGER.

Is now practising law at 52 Wall Street, New York City, in partnership with Gherardi Davis, Esq., under the firm name of Sanger & Davis. Is a member of the executive committee of the National Civil Service Reform Association and of the Brooklyn Civil Service Reform Association, a director and secretary of the Brooklyn Academy of Music, a director of the Hamilton Bank of Brooklyn, a trustee of the Brooklyn Hospital, the Brooklyn Art Association, and the Brooklyn Dispensary. Resides at 10 Montague Terrace, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHARLES WESLEY SAVAGE.

Has continued to practise law in Lowell, Mass., with his office at 45 Central Street, and, since March 4, 1885, has been alone in practice. June 15, 1886, resigned his office as one of the Registrars of Voters for Lowell, which position he held for five years, and of which board he was chairman during most of the time; from July 14, 1886, to Sept. 20, 1887, was, by appointment of Gov. Robinson, Supervisor of Registration for the city of Lowell, resigning on the last-named date.

ROBERT WILLIAM SAWYER.

Writes from Bangor, Me., as follows: "Pauline Sawyer was born April 16, 1887."

DAVID SEARS.

Writes as follows: "Was laid up with rheumatism for three years since 1884, and unable to do anything, but for the last two years have been somewhat better. In 1888, made a trip to Venezuela, and went round South America, stopping at places of interest. This year went to Europe again, and expect to stay until the autumn." His home is at 86 Beacon Street, Boston.

EDMUND HAMILTON SEARS.

Writes as follows: "Since the last report was published I have again become engaged in teaching, having opened a school for girls and young ladies, on Marlborough Street, Boston. The school is near the end of its fourth year, and has been fairly successful. The work is exceedingly pleasant and interesting, and I expect to continue it indefinitely. I am not married, and have not published anything beyond one or two articles in a religious magazine." Resides at 233 Marlborough Street, Boston.

THEODORE LOVETT SEWALL.

Has, since 1880, conducted the Indianapolis Classical School, at first a preparatory school for boys only, in Indianapolis, Ind.; but, since 1882, it has comprised a separate and similar school for girls also; the total enrolment in both schools, for the year 1888-89, was 225. Was married in 1880. At the dinner of the Indiana Harvard Club, Nov. 8, 1886, he responded to the toast to the University, and his remarks were subsequently printed. Resides at 343 North Pennsylvania Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

GEORGE CLARENCE SHEPARD.

Writes from El Cajon, Cal., as follows: "Was in Colorado ranching, near Colorado Springs, and camping in the mountains, until June, 1885, when I returned East, and went from New Bedford, Mass., as surgeon in the United States revenue barque 'Chase' on a four-months' cruise to England and the Azores, touching at Old Plymouth and St. Michael's. Was in Boston during the winter of 1885-86. I came to San Diego County, Cal., in April, 1886; bought land in El Cajon Valley, and planted a vineyard, which I am at present engaged in cultivating. Am one of the school trustees of the district, and was an election officer of the precinct at the Presidential election last year."

GEORGE SALTONSTALL SILSBEE.

Remained as partner with Frederic Dexter & Co. in the cotton-buying business, in Boston, until May 1, 1885, when the partnership was dissolved by mutual consent; then "accepted a position offered me by Mr. Jacob C. Rogers, to assist him in representing in Boston the banking firm of Messrs. J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, Eng., and in this business I now am, with an office at 43 State Street." Sept. 12, 1888, was married, in Boston, to Sarah Frances Gray, and has lived the past winter at 415 Beacon Street, Boston.

EDWARD EMERSON SIMMONS.

Has continued to reside abroad, most of the time at St. Ives, Cornwall, England, busy and enthusiastic in his profession as an artist. Writes from Paris, France, as follows: "I have, since the last report, painted and exposed numerous pictures, some of them being considered a success and some the contrary. I hope the Class considers them to be the former." Was married in 1883, and has two children: William Francis, born in July, 1884, and George Bradford, born in December, 1886. His European address is, Care of Munroe & Co., 7 Rue Scribe, Paris.

ROBERT ALEXANDER SOUTHWORTH.

Writes as follows: "In 1885, I was connected with Messrs. Loring & Russell in the publication of the 'Massachusetts Contested Election Cases.' In 1886 and 1887, I was assistant clerk of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. In 1887 and 1888, I was the secretary of the Republican State Committee; and in 1888, I represented the Second Suffolk Senatorial District in the Senate, and was on the Committees on Railroads, Bills in the Third Reading, and the Library. On Jan. 3, 1888, I was married to Mary Eliza Finney, of Boston."

WILLIAM FRANKLIN SPINNEY.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service, and writes from Canton, China, April 23, 1889, as follows: "In October, 1884, while still at home on leave, I received instructions from Peking to proceed to New Orleans in November to take charge of the Chinese Government Exhibit at the Exposition to be opened there in December. After a dreary (owing to crowded condition of hotels, bad weather, etc.) two months there, I returned to my home in Salem, Mass., and was married there, Jan. 29, 1885, to Annie Goodhue Ward. Arriving in New Orleans again, early in February, we remained until the end of June, and found the place more trying during the last six weeks of our stay than any place we have found in China. After a short stay at home we left for Shanghai via 'Frisco and Japan, and arrived there Sept. 17, without noteworthy incidents, save a typhoon, when near Japan. (May I never be in another!) Clarke, Merrill, and Morse met us at the wharf in Shanghai, the first time we had been together since Merrill left us in Shanghai, in 1874. I went at once to Foochow, as acting deputy commissioner, but my stay there was a brief one, for I was ordered to Peking for duty at the Inspectorate General, in February, 1886. I remained there until June, 1887, when I was transferred to this port, on promotion as a deputy commissioner, and now I am under orders to report at Shanghai 'for orders.' What my next port and billet will be I cannot tell. We expect to leave here within a fortnight."

CHARLES WELLINGTON STONE.

Writes as follows: "My school for boys has completed its tenth year. It is still kept in my house, 68 Chestnut Street, Boston. Private pupils have filled the rest of my time. In 1887, I established, in Templeton, Mass., a school for summer tuition. I have sent eighteen men into Harvard, and many elsewhere. I published, in 1886, a volume of verses, 'Needles of Pine,' and in 1889, for the Handel and Haydn Concert programme, a translation of the 'Dies Irae.' I have a small farm in Templeton, and received, in 1888, the silver medal of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society for new seedling potatoes. I am librarian of the Handel and Haydn Society and a member of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, the Bay State Agricultural Society, and the Massachusetts Reform Club. My only child, Alice Wellington, was born Sept. 28, 1884, and died of scarlet fever, March 27, 1889."

EDWIN PALMER STONE.

Has continued in the wholesale boot and shoe business in Boston, with his brother, Albert Stone, Esq., at 33 High Street. Was married in 1876, and has two children. In 1887, built a house on Marion Street, Brookline, Mass., where he now resides.

FREDERICK JOSEPH STONE.

When last heard from, in 1884, was practising law in New York City, having offices in the Stone Building, 32 Liberty Street, and making a specialty of real-estate, railroad, and corporate law, and was then residing at Dobbs Ferry, Westchester County, N. Y. Was married in 1875, and, in 1884, had three children living, two having died. (No report.)

HENRY L. STRAUS.

Has continued to practise law in Baltimore, Md. Was married in 1877. A child, Lee H., was born Dec. 21, 1888. Address, 7 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Md.

FREDERICK SWIFT.

Writes as follows: "Am still engaged in the whaling business in New Bedford, as a member of the firm of Aiken & Swift, and still am in San Francisco each fall in consequence. Have been actively engaged also in the electric-lighting business, and in mining, both in California and in Wisconsin." Was married in 1876, and has three children.

ARCHIBALD DICK THOMAS.

Died in West Chester, Pa., March 25, 1881.

See Secretary's Report No. 4 (1884), pp. 41, 42.

CHARLES SANDERS TUCKERMAN.

Writes as follows: "In December, 1885, I resigned the position of secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and formed a partnership with A. L. Devens to carry on a banking and brokerage business in Boston. In January, 1887, I went to Chicago, Ill., as treasurer of the Chicago, Santa Fé and California Railway Company, which position I held until the completion of that road, in May, 1888, when I returned to Boston as assistant secretary of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad Company and its auxiliary lines. This position I now hold. . . ." Was married in 1880, and has three children; his third child, Julia Appleton, was born May 17, 1888. Resides at Ipswich, Mass., and spends the winter months at his home, 292 Marlborough Street, Boston.

COLUMBUS TYLER TYLER.

Writes from Iloilo, Philippine Islands, April 18, 1889, as follows: "I continued as clerk in the office of Peele, Hubbell & Co., at Iloilo, until the fall of 1885, when I was admitted as a partner in the Iloilo house. As such, I remained until the spring of 1887, when business reverses compelled the suspension and failure of the main house in Manilla and its branches. From June, 1887, to September of same year, I was in the United States. On my return to Iloilo, the house of Tyler & Co. was formed, with three partners, and with it I continue to the present writing. . . ." Was married in 1881; his daughter, Mary Lodge, died April 13, 1885; his third child, Joseph Curtis, 3d, was born Dec. 20, 1886.

HARRY BLAKE TYLER.

Writes from Philadelphia, Pa., as follows: "In February, 1885, I was elected a Common Councilman of this city for the term of two years. In March, 1887, I was appointed by the governor one of a Board of Commissioners to build the Pennsylvania State Industrial Reformatory, at Huntingdon; and upon its completion, I was appointed one of its managers, which position I still continue to hold. I have always taken an active interest in politics, being at present chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Republican Campaign Committee." Resides at 201 South Fifteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

WILLIAM ROYALL TYLER.

Has been teaching since graduation at Adams Academy, Quincy, Mass., a preparatory school for admission to college, of which Dr. William Everett is master; and "has occasionally reviewed a book for the New York Nation." Was married in 1883, and has one child.

FREDERICK OZNI VAILLE.

Writes as follows: "In June, 1884, I removed to Lexington, Mass., where I have taken up my residence and engaged in farming. In July, 1886, I went abroad with my family, remaining until the following June, . . . visiting Ireland, Scotland, and England, then to Germany, and passing the winter in Dresden, engaged in studying German and making some trips about. In one of these trips I met Perrin, and we enjoyed our meeting very much. He had attained such proficiency in German as to be taken by a German acquaintance for a native. We subsequently visited Nuremberg and Heidelberg, . . . thence through Switzerland, and from there to Paris, where I saw Simmons, who is making a fine reputation for himself in his profession. . . . I have been occupied upon my farm in Lexington since my return, devoting a good part of my time to miscellaneous interests."

GEORGE WILLETT VAN NEST.

Writes as follows: "Since 1884, I have been engaged in the practice of the law in New York City, having for the last two years had my office at 62 Wall Street. I have taken some interest in politics, but have not been connected with any of the regular party organizations. In 1884, I was treasurer of the Cleveland Association of Members of the Bar. In 1887, I was a member of the executive committee of the Citizens' Nicoll Campaign Committee, and am at present corresponding secretary of the Young Men's Democratic Club. I am a member of the committee on grievances of the Association of the Bar, a member of the University Club, Harvard Club, Down Town Association, Berkeley Athletic Association, Young Men's Democratic Club, Holland Society, and the Association of the Bar."

HENRY HOUGHTON WILLIAMS.

Died in Worcester, Mass., June 20, 1876.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 44, 45.

CHARLES FRANCIS WITHINGTON.

Writes as follows : " Am physician to out-patients at the Boston City Hospital, and assistant in Clinical Medicine in the Harvard Medical School. These duties, with my editorial work on the 'Boston Medical and Surgical Journal,' which I still continue, and an increasing private practice, keep my time pretty well filled. I am connected as trustee with some of our local institutions, among them the Roxbury Latin School, a school in which I once taught, and which is now nearing the end of its first quarter millennium of existence. I have never gone into politics. Among professional articles written in the past five years have been: 'Consanguineous Marriages; their Effect upon Offspring' (Trans. Mass. Med. Soc., 1885); a pamphlet published in 1886 'On the Relation of Hospitals to Medical Education,' which received the Boylston Prize of Harvard University; also 'An Inquiry into the Transmission of Contagious Diseases through the Medium of Rags,' made at the request of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, and published in their report for 1887. Have also prepared several articles for 'Wood's Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences' (New York, 1886-8). For the last year have written little outside my journalistic work. Olive branch No. 3, Margaret, born Aug. 1, 1888, is, with her twin brothers (the pioneer twins of the class, I believe), doing all that can reasonably be expected." Office and residence is at 255 Warren Street, Roxbury, Mass.

DAVID LITTLE WITTINGTON.

Writes as follows: "I am practising law in San Diego, Cal., and at the same time, have a fruit ranch at Escondido, about thirty miles north, where my family usually reside. My removal from Newburyport, Mass., to California, in December, 1886, was occasioned by the health of my present wife, who was unable to live East. The change, for her, has been a most beneficial one, but I myself have 'enjoyed' two years of miserable health, chiefly the result of a typhoid fever, caught while San Diego was growing from three to thirty thousand inhabitants within three years. I have not yet fully recovered, although, substantially, my health is re-established. In Newburyport, I was a member of the 'Saturday Night Club,' a social and literary organization, and was interested in the Plum Island Turnpike and Bridge Corporation, as director and treasurer, and in other corporations. Was also a member of various political committees, including the Republican State Committee, and was chairman of the local Board of Civil Service Examiners in Newburyport. Made, in 1886, a short trip to England, and have travelled quite a little in our own country. In California, I am now a director of the Bank of Escondido, in which I have a considerable interest. My wife died July 2, 1884, and I was again married Feb. 2, 1887, in San Diego, to Marietta Dennett Paul, of Newburyport. We have one child, Paul, born Jan. 25, 1888. I have found the life and climate here delightful; not the least of its pleasures is that my old chum, Shepard, is ranching here."

SAMUEL BAYARD WOODWARD.

Writes from Italy, May 16, 1889, as follows: "Until October last, I was in practice in Worcester. Since that time I have been in Southern France and Italy with my wife. I shall spend the summer in Switzerland, and then return home and put myself into harness once more. In 1885, I was appointed visiting surgeon of the Worcester City Hospital, and in June, 1888, visiting surgeon of the Memorial Hospital for Women and Children, then just opened. For two years I have been treasurer of the Worcester District Medical Society. I have written several articles for medical journals, and was one of the contributors to Dr. Buck's 'Cyclopædia of Medicine and Surgery,' and with much labor and little success, scrambled together a history of the medical profession for a history of Worcester County. I was married Sept. 16, 1884, in Worcester, to Margaret Perley, of Concord, N. H." Resides at 72 Pleasant Street, Worcester, Mass.

JOHN PALMER WYMAN.

Has continued to practice law in Boston, having his office at 30 Court Street. Was married in 1877, and has three children; his second child, John Palmer 3d, was born July 15, 1884, and Samuel Edwin 2d, was born Feb. 17, 1887. Resides at 23 Fayette Street, Cambridgeport, Mass.

No definite information concerning his present residence and occupation can be given by the Class Secretary. (Has never made a report.)

GEORGE ROCKWELL KENT, the son of George Lewis and Matilda (Rockwell) Kent, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2, 1853. He was fitted for college at the Phillips Exeter Academy, and was admitted to the class at the beginning of the Sophomore year, after a year at Yale College. In the spring of 1872, he severed his connection with the class, and soon after took the course in mining-engineering at the School of Mines of Columbia College, and completed his professional studies at Freiburg, Saxony, receiving the degree of M. E. from both institutions. After a year in California he returned to New York City and commenced the study of law at the Columbia Law School, and soon after his admission to the bar, entered into a law partnership in New York City, in 1877, with Joseph S. Auberbach, Esq., and later was a member of the law firm of Lowrey, Stone & Auerbach. He was subsequently engaged in important business and mining interests, and visited Europe in 1886, and made two trips to Honduras in 1884 and 1886, in connection with these interests. He died Sept. 26, 1887, at his residence 109 East Eighty-first Street, New York City, of typhoid fever, leaving a widow, née Sara Holgate Bunker, to whom he was married July 9, 1881, in Brooklyn, N. Y., and three children: Rockwell, born June 21, 1882; Douglas, born Feb. 6, 1884; and Dorothy, born March 2, 1888.

ROCKWELL KING.

Has continued in the iron business in Chicago, Ill. In January, 1886, the firm of King & Andrews passed into the hands of a corporation as the King & Andrews Company, of which he is president, with iron foundry and offices at 218-222 North Union Street, in that city. Was married in 1881, and has four children; his third child, McGregor Adams, was born Jan. 28, 1886, and Andrews was born April 17, 1889.

EMIL WASHINGTON KRACKOWIZER.

Writes from Milwaukee, Wis., as follows: ". . . In 1884 I secured what looked like a most promising field of action, in charge of the Marinette (Wis.) public schools. I was to have five years' leeway to reorganize them on the Quincy plan, but the local boss diagnosed this as pedagogic mumps, 'caught 'em bad,' and got me fired inside of three months. Whereupon I took it out of his hide in the local press, knocked him out in the courts, having the proverbial fool (Egomet ipse) for counsel, and the next year mopped the sand and sawdust of that region with his shape, politically. Meanwhile, I had become private tutor of a wealthy young Milwaukeean. . . . During this time I squibbed for the local press, and two years ago chance threw the editorial management of a then newly started, but not firmly established, evening paper into my hands. This I conducted for eight months, and won my editorial spurs by catching the limit of the law for alliteratively alluding to a certain alderman as a 'blasphemous boodler,' though the truth, in his case, was, for a fact, stranger than fiction. Then I went on to the Sentinel here, and busied myself in sizing and doing up aldermen, supervisors, and school commissioners, besides cultivating for the Sunday edition, as special hobbies, 'Art and Artists,' and 'Grand Army Gossip.' Is now on the Herold, a daily, weekly, and Sunday paper in Milwaukee, "noted for its progressive crankiness." Was married in 1879, and has three children; his third child, Mary Parmelee, was born Oct. 16, 1888.

CHAUNCEY EDWARD LOW.

Writes as follows: "I was connected with the house of A. A. Low & Brothers, East India merchants, at 31 Burling Slip, New York City, until Jan. 1, 1887, when the firm retired from business, and for an avocation I took up the study of medicine in the New York Homœopathic Medical College and Hospital, from which I graduated this spring, finishing the three-years' course in two years, and taking highest honorable mention. Since taking my degree as doctor of medicine, I have received an appointment to the chair of Anatomy in the aforesaid college, as Associate Professor, also an appointment upon the medical staff of the Dispensary, at the Cumberland Street Hospital in Brooklyn. It is my purpose to pursue surgery as a profession. I reside at Bay-shore, L. I., for six months of the year, where I am a member of the Board of Health, and the other six months I am in Brooklyn, with my office and residence at 110 Remsen Street. . . ." Was married in 1875; his third child, Nathalie Frothingham, was born Aug. 28, 1886.

CHARLES AUSTIN MACKINTOSH, son of Charles Gideon and Harriet Anne (Richards) Mackintosh, was born in West Roxbury, Mass., Aug. 25, 1853.

Mackintosh was prepared for college chiefly at the school of Mr. W. C. Eayrs, in Boston. He entered the class of 1873, but failing to pass the annual examination he was "dropped" into the class of '74, with which he continued until the April preceding our graduation, when he left college. He had been elected to the office of Class Poet, for which he was eminently fitted. He was one of the founders of the Magenta, now called the Crimson; a member of the Everett Athenæum, of the "O. K." and Pi Eta Societies; a graphic, witty, and, considering his age, a polished writer both in prose and verse, a good actor and a sympathetic, cheerful, brilliant companion. More than one member of our class will look back to the hours which he passed in "Mack's" company as among the pleasantest of his life. He always had something original and picturesque to say. His manners were extremely attractive, and he was gifted with a handsome face and a strong and graceful figure.

After leaving college he studied law in Dedham, Mass., in the office of Hon. Waldo Colburn, afterward one of the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, applying himself with that extraordinary power of which he was capable, so that he was admitted to the bar as early as Oct. 4, 1875. He had an office subsequently both in Dedham and in Boston.

About two years ago, while suffering from an acute attack of neuralgia, he got up from his sick-bed, and despite the warnings of his physician, spent nearly or quite a whole week in the trial of an arduous case. After this he was severely ill, and recovering in part, but being still unfit to practise law, he joined the stage, for which he always had a fancy, and spent one season with a travelling company. This would have been hard work for most men, but to him it was a recreation; he returned much improved in health and resumed his former profession with success, but he never recovered entirely. In politics he was a Democrat, taking an active part as a speaker, filling many political offices and representing his district in the Massachusetts Legislature of 1883. He became a candidate for re-election, but was, as he expressed it, "buried under an adverse majority of five." He died in Dedham early on Sunday morning, June 9, 1889, of heart disease, having been taken ill the preceding evening.

Such is the meagre record of his life, but those who knew him will read between the lines. He was one of those men who in early life arouse expectations which they do not fulfil, partly from want of ambition and partly because the very versatility and quickness of their minds prevent them from concentrating their strength and their efforts. Added to this, in his case, was a tendency to take up with unpopular men and measures not always worthy of his support; but this trait endeared him to his friends because it was rooted in a manly and chivalrous preference for the weaker side. He died at thirty-five, and it is seldom that much has been accomplished at that early age. Mackintosh had his foibles, his faults of character, and mental limitations, but he possessed in a rare degree the rare and noble virtue of magnanimity. He was essentially generous, — generous in his thoughts and in his conduct, a firm friend and a good hater; kind and courageous. So various and many-sided was his nature, so wide were his friendships, so diverse the parts that he played and the tasks which he discharged, that he seemed like several men rather than one. It is doubtful if those who knew him best knew him completely, or even thought that they did so. He leaves many friends, and as all men should, some enemies.

His sudden death seemed at first untimely and shocking, but those who loved him will find almost a pleasure in thinking that not old age or temptation or adversity can touch him now. Better as it is than that he should have lived to become, as is so often the fate of man, broken in body and in spirit. He will survive in memory as a strong, bright, youthful, in many respects a noble figure.

H. C. M.

FRANCIS HENRY MATTHEWS.

Has continued to be engaged in the wool business in Boston on his own account, and now has his store and offices at 252 Congress Street, corner of Atlantic Avenue. Resides at 198 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. (No report.)

GEORGE FRANK MERRILL.

Has continued, until recently, to practise medicine in Cambridge, Somerset County, Me., but has now sold out his practice there, and designs going to Washington Territory. Is married and has one child.

OTIS OSGOOD ORDWAY.

Writes as follows: "Since 1884, my experience has been quite varied, more so than ordinarily. Until September, 1886, I resided in Ipswich, Mass., resting and equipping myself to do better work in my calling. After supplying the Baptist Church in Hammonton, N. J., awhile, I was called to the pastorate, and became pastor in December, 1886, remaining there for a year, when circumstances apart from the church forced my retirement to a pastorate at the Second Baptist Church in Haverhill, Mass., where I have since remained. I was married Feb. 24, 1886, to Abbie L. Conant. . . ."

EDMUND QUINCY SEWALL OSGOOD.

Writes as follows: "Nov. 1, 1885, I resigned my Plymouth pastorate. During the winter of 1885-86 I preached as candidate in various pulpits, at the same time lecturing a little, and giving instruction to private pupils. June 1, 1886, having received a call from the Congregational Society (Unitarian) of Grafton, Mass., I began my duties in this new parish, a charge I still have. Since settling in this place, I have had a number of pupils in the classics and modern languages, and also, as chairman of the school committee, have had an active interest in the public-school system. May 16, 1889, I read an essay before the Worcester Conference, entitled 'The Church as a Home.'"

CHARLES EDWARD PERKINS.

Died in Somerville, Mass., Oct. 26, 1883.

See Secretary's Report No. 4 (1884), pp. 52, 53.

LOUIS ATHERTON POPE.

Was pastor of the Baptist Church in Warren, R. I., until this spring, when he accepted a call to the Baptist Church in Newburyport, Mass. (No report.)

WILLIAM LAWRENCE PORTER.

No definite information concerning his present residence and occupation can be given by the Class Secretary. (Has never made a report.)

JOHN RUFUS RANNEY.

Has continued to practise law in Cleveland, Ohio, with offices at 9 and 10 Case Building. In February, 1888, his father, Judge R. P. Ranney, retired from active practice, and Hon. Henry McKinney entered the firm, now known as Ranneys & McKinney. Is married. Resides at 781 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

BENJAMIN CALVIN REED.

No definite information concerning him since he left the class at the end of Sophomore year can be given by the Class Secretary, but it is said that he is residing and in business in Whitman, Mass. (Has never made a report.)

WALDO REED.

Remained in Texas until 1886, when, having sold out his ranches and interests there, he returned to Taunton, Mass., and went into business there. Is now treasurer of the Reed, Barton & Co. Corporation, silversmiths and electro-platers. Is married.

CHARLES OTIS SCOTT.

Writes as follows: "In July, 1887, I severed my connection with the A. S. Herenden Furniture Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, and since then have not been in active business, although I have engaged in and am still interested in several enterprises, from which I hope to make an honest dollar. Am still a director in the Mercantile Insurance Company." Resides at the Lennox, Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

THOMAS ELY SECOR.

When last heard from, in 1884, was practising law in New York City, having his office at 156 Broadway. (No report.)

SAMUEL PARKMAN SHAW.

Is not in active business ; has been in Europe much of the time since the last report, and still has his residence at Lenox, Mass. Was married in 1874, and has two children living. (No report.)

DAVID STUBERT STEPHENS.

Writes from Pittsburg, Pa., as follows: "Since your last report, in 1884, I have changed my occupation. By the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church I was elected editor of the Methodist Recorder, in June, 1888. I resigned my position as president of Adrian College to assume the duties of this position. This paper is published at 182 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburg. In addition to the three children before reported, we have a little daughter, yet nameless, born in April, 1889."

EUGENE FRANCIS WARNER.

Has continued to practise law, having his office at 45 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I. Has been clerk of the Rhode Island Senate continuously since 1878; was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, in 1884; was elected Justice of Fourth District Court, in 1886, which office he still holds. Resides at Coventry, R. I.

JOSEPH WARREN WARREN, the son of George Washington and Georgianna Whitney (Thompson) Warren, was born in Charlestown (Boston), Mass., June 5, 1851. He was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, and under J. H. Wheeler (H. U. 1871), as private tutor in Cambridge, and joined the class in the Freshman year, having previously passed a year with the class of 1873. He remained with us but a year also, and upon then leaving college, he went into a banking office in Boston to learn the business, and subsequently passed two or three years in Europe. Upon his return he commenced the study of law in Boston, attending the lectures at the Law School of Boston University, and reading law also at his father's office, but he was never admitted to the bar. In 1880 he was the Consul for the Republic of Liberia, in Boston, and during this time, and for some time after, he remained in his father's office assisting him in clerical work. He sailed from New York City in the barque "Onaway," Oct. 31, 1884, for Australia, and died Aug. 24, 1885, in the hospital at Sydney, N. S. W., of Bright's disease. He was never married.

HENRY TODD WASHBURN.

Has been, a portion of the time at least, since 1884, a clerk in the employ of Bradford, Thomas & Co., importers and jobbers of dry goods in Boston, but his present occupation and residence are not definitely known by the Class Secretary. (No report.)

CHARLES HORACE WATSON.

Died in Ashtabula, Ohio, Dec. 17, 1876.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 55, 56.

DAVID WATTS.

Writes from Harrisburg, Pa.: "I have got to be sort of a Poo-Bah, as follows: am secretary and treasurer of the Swatara Furnaces, of the Derry Coal and Coke Company, of the Fire Brick Hot Blast Stove Company, and of the Lochiel Furnace Company, of the latter of which I am also superintendent, and am still connected with the Harrisburg Nail Works. Since the report in 1884, the five $1,000 United States 4½% registered bonds have been sold, and the following bonds have been purchased: One $1,000 Oregon Short Line R. R. 6% bond, one $1,000 Chicago and West Michigan R. R. 5% bond, one $1,000 Memphis Equipment Company 6% bond, one $1,000 Southern Kansas Railway (Gulf Div.) 5% bond, one $1,000 Oregon and Transcontinental Company 6% bond, one $1,000 Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon R. R. 6% (1923) bond, and one $500 Southern Kansas Railway (Texas Div.) 5% bond. In June, 1888, the $1,000 Memphis Equipment Company 6% bond was called in at 105, and exchanged for one $1,000 Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis R. R. 6% bond at 112. The two $500 United States 4% coupon bonds, one $1,000 Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway R. R. 4½% bond, and $500 Detroit, Lansing and Northern R. R. 7% bond have been retained since 1884. The securities, as above stated, now owned by the class, cost $8,861.87; and June 13, 1889, were worth $9,572.50; and yield an annual income of $485.00. On pp. 74, 75, of this report will be found the statement giving in detail the receipts and expenditures on account of the Class Fund for the past five years.

There has been paid over, in behalf of the class, to the Committee of the Alumni having charge of this fund, also sometimes called the "College Fund," the sum of $1,124, as appears more fully in the account on p. 73 of this report.

As the subscription of the class to this fund was so small as compared with that of other classes, it was suggested in the last report that an additional sum be raised in the class for the purpose of placing a stained-glass window in Memorial Hall. While it was clearly shown at the Commencement meeting, June 30, 1886 (see p. 67), that a diversion of any part of the Class Fund for such a purpose was opposed by so many that it could not be further urged, it is thought by a large number of the class that some action should be taken to raise an additional subscription for this purpose, before the spaces allotted for such windows are taken up. For this reason, the matter is again brought to your attention by the Class Secretary.

RECORD OF MEETINGS SINCE LAST REPORT.

DECENNIAL DINNER, June 24, 1884.

The decennial dinner took place at Young's Hotel in Boston, on the evening of June 24, 1884. The Class Secretary presided. Seventy classmates were present. Following the report were informal speeches and songs. A song written for the occasion, being a colloquy between the married and single men of the class, with libretto by W. R. Richards and music by Foote,* was an amusing feature of the evening.

FIFTEENTH MEETING, June 25, 1884.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order 12 M.

The Class Secretary formally presented his fourth printed report, which was accepted. In this report was printed the result of the examination by the committee consisting of Blaney, Wigglesworth, and E. P. Stone, of the books and accounts of the Class Secretary, which were duly approved, and the account found to be properly vouched.

The question as to when class dinners should be had was brought to the attention of the meeting, and after discussion it was voted, that the class dine at the expense of the Class Fund in 1887, 1889, 1892, and 1894.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.

SIXTEENTH MEETING, June 24, 1885.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The statement of the finances of the class, presented by the Class Secretary, was read and accepted.

The resolutions to the memory of William Howard Baker, who died Jan. 24, 1885, were presented in behalf of the committee consisting of N. D. C. Hodges, Hill, and G. W. White; also the memorial notice written by N. D. C. Hodges. These resolutions* and memorial notice were accepted, and the action of the Class Secretary in forwarding them to the family of the deceased and to the class without awaiting the formal acceptance by the class was approved.

It was voted, in the event of the death of a classmate happening long prior to the annual Commencement meeting, that the Class Secretary be directed to follow the same course adopted by him in the above case, in order that the action of the class may not be long delayed. The plan adopted by the class at the Commencement meeting June 30, 1880, is by this vote modified in the manner above stated.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.

SEVENTEENTH MEETING, June 30, 1886.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The financial statement of the class for the past year as presented by the Class Secretary was read and accepted.

The resolutions to the memory of Frederic Howard Lombard, who died Dec. 15, 1885, were presented in behalf of the committee consisting of Wigglesworth, P. Dana, and H. L. Morse; also the memorial notice written by Wigglesworth. These resolutions* and memorial notice were formally accepted. The Class Secretary having reported that, in accordance with the vote at the last Commencement meeting, he had forwarded these resolutions and memorial notice to the family of the deceased and to each member of the class, no further action was necessary.

It was voted, that the class dine at the expense of the Class Fund in November, 1886, on the occasion of the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the college, the date and place of the dinner, with the other details, to be arranged by the Class Secretary, who is to notify the class of his action. This vote was passed after a report from the Class Secretary on the answers received to his circular of April 26, 1886, as to the expediency of having a dinner at that time.

In this circular, the class was also requested to express their views with reference to placing a stained-glass window in Memorial Hall, and if they favored it, whether the sum of fifteen hundred dollars required should be raised from subscription or diverted from the Class Fund. After discussion on the report made by the Class Secretary, as to the nature of the replies received, many of which were opposed to any diversion of the Class Fund for such a purpose, it was voted, that the matter be laid on the table.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.

CLASS DINNER, November 6, 1886.

By the vote of the class at the annual Commencement meeting, June 30, 1886, the class dined at Young's Hotel, in Boston, on the evening of Nov. 6, 1886, on the occasion of the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the college. Harding presided. Sixty-nine members were present. The speeches following the repast were of the usual informal character, and many college songs were enjoyed by all. The music was led by Foote, who at this dinner, as well as at all others, contributed greatly to the success of the dinner.

* It is not deemed necessary to print these resolutions in this report. They are recorded in the Class Book. The memorial notice also appears in this report.

CLASS DINNER, June 28, 1887.

In accordance with the vote of the class at the Commencement meeting, June 25, 1884, a class dinner was had at Young's Hotel in Boston, on the evening of June 28, 1887. W. R. Richards presided. Forty-three members were present, the attendance being somewhat smaller than usual, on account of being had so soon after the dinner in November, 1886, on the occasion of the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the college. The success of the dinner was largely due to the presiding officer and to the musical efforts of Foote and Cunningham, who gave much pleasure and entertainment to all present.

EIGHTEENTH MEETING, June 29, 1887.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The financial statement as presented by the Class Secretary, covering the past year, and showing in full the securities now owned by the class, was read and accepted.

The Class Secretary asking for instructions as to what course should be followed by him in sending invitations to class dinners to such former members of the class as are not subscribers to the Class Fund, after discussion it was voted, that the matter be left to the discretion of the Class Secretary.

The suggestion being made by the Class Secretary that a revised list of addresses be prepared by him, printed and sent to the class as soon as may be, and that a statement of the class finances, covering the period since 1884, when the last printed statement was rendered, be printed and sent at the same time, it was voted, that such a revised list of addresses be so printed and sent to the class, but that such a financial statement be not printed.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.

NINETEENTH MEETING, June 27, 1888.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The report of the Class Secretary as to the finances of the class was then read by him, and a committee consisting of Cunningham, Green, and Warner was appointed to examine the books and accounts of the Class Secretary with particular reference to the period since the last examination, June 14, 1884, to approve the same if found correct, and to report their action at the class meeting on Commencement day next year.

The Class Secretary announced that he had been informed during the past year of the death of two former members of the class, viz.: Joseph Warren Warren, who died Aug. 24, 1885, in Sydney, N. S. W., of Bright's disease, and George Rockwell Kent, who died in New York City, Sept. 26, 1887, of typhoid fever.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.
